RENAME M STREET
AS PENNSYLVANIA,
GEORGETOWN ASKS

Continuation of Avenue
Where Two Join Is Plea to District.

Georgetown residents want that part of M street which runs through their section renamed Pennsylvania avenue. The Commissioners, however, frown on the idea, holding that M street possesses neither the beauty nor the width to entitle it to be called Pennsylvania avenue.

"Pennsylvania avenue, after crossing Rock Creek joins M street at Twenty-ninth street," said President J. A. Oliver, of the Georgetown Citizens' Association, yesterday. "The two join so naturally that few persons realize that they are different streets. The Commissioners say that M street does not rise to the dignity of Pennsylvania avenue and therefore should not be named after that thoroughfare. Why not give it the needed dignity and make the required improvement?"

"Pennsylvania avenue to end at Twenty-ninth street, hurts the pride of Georgetown residents," according to Oliver. They feel that the famous street should be continued through their section, and will never be satisfied until that is done.

Virginia authorities have approached Georgetown citizens on several occasions and asked them to have M street rechristened "The Old Dominion Boulevard," but the citizens have held off, hoping eventually to have the street's name changed to Pennsylvania avenue.

MRS. IVY GIBERSON
CALM AT TRIAL FOR MURDER OF SPOUSE

Prosecutor Declares Deed
Was Inspired by Love
For Another Man.

LAKEWOOD, N. J. Oct. 11.—Plump matronly Mrs. Ivy Giberson went on trial for her life today before Supreme Court Justice Kalitich at Toms River, charged with the murder of her husband, William, while he lay sleeping in the bedroom of their Lakehurst home on the night of August 14.

Attired in mourning, and seated between her lawyers, Mrs. Giberson listened attentively and calmly made notes on a paper pad, while prosecuting Attorney Jayne, in his opening address, told of evidence in his possession which he said would prove she sent her husband away on fictitious business missions, in order to rid herself of his presence.

The prosecutor inferred her desire to be rid of her husband was prompted by interest in another man, a man to whom she had written daily, whom she had visited daily and "continuously sought." This man, he said, is Harold A. Ga Nun, a married man with one child, who lives in New York City. The prosecutor also said he would show that through juggling of his bank accounts, which his wife handled, Giberson was $2,200 poorer when he was killed, than he had been led to believe.

The first witnesses called were technical witnesses for the State. Dr. Frank Brouwer, Toms River corner, an undertaker and his assistant, and several railroad clerks who were among the first to reach the scene of the slaying, having been attracted by Mrs. Giberson's screams.

Spoonful for a Penny

Prove splendid laxative properties of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin by test

SCIENTIFIC test has now proven what Dr. Caldwell of Monticello asserted many years ago, that constipation will slow you up fully 25 per cent.

The test was made by Dr. Donaldson of Loma Linda upon four men in the prime of life who deliberately went without a bowel movement for four days. Within 48 hours the men had coated tongue and foul breath, cankers in the mouth, no appetite, restlessness, indigestion, headache, depression, nervousness, cramps. The blood pressure was up 23 per cent. It is just this that Dr. Caldwell has preached to his patients in private and to the public through the printed word ever since he began the practice of his specialty, diseases of the stomach and bowels, back in 1875.

Every member of the family from the infants to the grandparents can use it with safety. It is gentle and mild. The formula is on the package. Mrs. Roy Cook of Bellefontaine, O., has been giving it to her 5-months old baby, who now weighs 19 pounds; and Mr. J. B. Dawson of Brinson, Ga., declares it the best laxative his family has ever found. Try a spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin for constipation or any of its symptoms. The results will delight you. And the cost is only one cent a dose.

After observing for years the satisfactory effect of his prescription for constipation, he placed it in drug stores in 1892, a simple vegetable compound of Egyptian senna and pepsin with pleasant-tasting aromatics, now

Rev. and Mrs. Alfred E. Barrows were "at home" Tuesday night to members of the Eastern Presbyterian Church at their residence, 611 Maryland avenue northeast.

The interior of the home was decorated with palms, ferns and cut flowers. The officers of the various organizations of the church assisted Dr. and Mrs. Barrows in the receiving line.

The affair was in the nature of a housewarming, as the property was recently purchased by the church and remodeled for the home of the pastor. The property adjoins the church on the Maryland avenue side and is directly connected with the church, the lower floor being used as a general meeting room for church activities.

BOARD PROMOTES
FIVE TEACHERS
IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Yesterday's Session Held
Mainly Behind Closed Doors.

Following twenty minutes of open conference, the Board of Education at Franklin School yesterday afternoon went into executive session and remained closed until adjournment at 6:20 last night.

While the subject matter discussed was not revealed, it is said that it concerned appointment of teachers. The board is also believed to have had under consideration the reduction in grade of several teachers whose demotions were recommended last spring by their principals.

Due to the executive session the board did not take up the question of liberalizing the policy relating to use of the schools as civic centers. Refusal of the board to allow the Central High School auditorium to be used by the New York Symphony Orchestra because it is a mercenary enterprise has led, it is said, to demands that the schools be thrown open to wider use by citizens and organizations regardless of pecuniary, racial, religious or political considerations.

Following teachers in the public schools, upon recommendation of the superintendent, were promoted by the board: S. W. Walcott, E. M. Peoples, Mary Eastlake, E. McD. George, L. L. Marshall. The following appointments were approved: Alida Hartranft, Claire Laughlin, L. P. Pope, Ruth Puckett, J. L. Koehka, W. R. Stokes, J. N. Reeder, Richard Gantt, J. A. Johnson, Joseph Duncan, Anne Kelly, L. V. Grinard, Ivaline Maxwell, A. B. Stokes, Z. M. Bundy, Lucille Silbert, S. I. Daniel, and G. H. Woodward.

BLOOD SPOTS ONLY CLUE TO MURDER

HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 11.—Police here were baffled today by a suspected murder whose only traces were great splashes and clots of blood spilled over concrete steps along the Susquehanna River front.

City Health Officer Raunick, who analyzed the blood, pronounced it human. City-wide search of hospitals yielded no clue.

Police Chief Thompson was of the opinion that the blood had dripped from a body taken from a boat landing at the foot of the steps. According to this theory the crime may have been committed on an island or on the opposite shore and the victim disposed of on the Harrisburg side.

In grandmother's day the high silk hat was as indispensable to the family physician as his horse and carriage, but with the advent of the motor car the "topper" was relegated to the museum of antiquities with one or two exceptions to the modern rule of head dress is Dr. Abraham B. Advance information on a secret wedding is harder to get than a parking space for an automobile, according to the cub reporter.

In seeking the details of a wedding, the cub encountered the mother of the would-be bride who it developed, had not been included in the plans.

Frantic signaling on the part of the daughter served to awaken the cub journalist to the realization that all was not well. The mother was emphatic. She explained that she had but one daughter, who most certainly was not considering matrimony. The mysterious signs, signals and semaphoring continued behind her back until the daughter, by some means, succeeded in getting the reporter alone. At this point she confessed that although her mother was not in the scheme she did intend to get married and to make the matter more complicated, the would-be bridegroom showed up.

Having made his exit without having caused an expose, the cub now insists that he is eligible for any diplomatic post that the United States may have open.

Talks on the relation of Rotary Club ideals to plans of the National Restaurant Association were made before the Rotary Club by Harry S. Baldwin, John Welch and Guy Gundacker, officers of the association, at the Rotary Club luncheon at the Willard Hotel yesterday.

It was pointed out that thirteen of fifteen officers of the Restaurant Association were Rotary members, making for a similarity of thought between the two organizations.

The necessity for decreasing infant mortality was emphasized by Harry Shaw, of Albany. He invited Rotarians to the American Child Hygiene Association convention opening here today.

Thanks were extended to all members who aided in making the baby dinner a success, by Charles Semmes, committee chairman. He especially thanked Roland Robbins, manager of Keith's Theater, for his assistance.

General Staff Selects High
School Brigade as Model
For Other Schools.

Washington High School Cadet Corps will be used as a model for high schools throughout the United States, according to plans now under preparation by General Staff of the War Department.

Impressed by the performance of the local cadet regiments as compared with other high school cadet corps inspected throughout the country, Brig. Gen. William Lassiter yesterday asked Assistant Superintendent Stephen E. Kramer to prepare a history of the cadet corps in the high schools since its inception in 1882. Lieut. Col. Wallace M. Craigie, professor of military science and tactics, was asked to submit a brief describing the tactics and methods of instruction employed in the local high school brigade.

Secretary of War Weeks, who witnessed the competitive high school company drills last year, is said to have declared the Washington cadets the best he had ever witnessed.

School officials, in conjunction with Col. Craigie, it is reported, will begin making a study to collect data upon which to base their report to the general staff. The brief will cover the work of the Washington High School Cadet Corps for the forty years it has been a part of the school system.

NEW D. C. HOSPITAL
IN SOUTHEAST NOW
READY FOR SERVICE

Elaborate Psychopathic
Wards at Gallinger
Will Go in Use Soon.

Four large buildings of the Gallinger Hospital, each equipped with every conceivable modern improvement for the handling of psychopathic patients, have now been completed and arrangements are being made by Maj. E. W. Patterson, in charge of the institution, for the furnishings of the buildings. They will be ready for occupancy in about two months.

The buildings, joined together by a common basement and with open balconies, are built of brick with stone foundations at the expense of more than $2,000,000. They occupy an area of approximately a city square block, located on the spot of the old District work house.

With the new erections, Washington will be equipped with a psychopathic hospital which is excelled by none in the country. Much pride is being shown by Maj. Patterson and Charles Hutchinson, superintendent of the plants beautifying the surroundings.

The buildings were started more than two years ago, when the appropriation was received from Congress. Appropriations for additions are being asked.

A current driveway leading from Massachusetts avenue southeast leads to the receiving building and offices located in the center of the four-winged structure. Acreways in each of the two floors lead to the main entrance buildings.

The entire basement of the structure is fitted out for the treatment of the psychopathic patients.

The second floor of the receiving building will be devoted to the handling of children patients. According to the superintendent the structure will be capable of accommodating approximately 500 patients. An underground tunnel approximately ten feet by six feet which is lighted with electricity leads to the kitchen building about three blocks away. Food will be rolled into the hospital buildings on late trucks.

The purpose of the new structure, according to officials, is to treat patients a longer time before being compelled to have them judged insane by a jury of commissioners and transferred to the St. Elizabeth's Hospital. With the present system, the crowded conditions and the inadequate equipment compels the quarterly meeting of the church majority of patients judged insane after being psychically inmates no longer than approximately ten days.

Missionary Day will be celebrated by the Sunday school of the Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, Fifth and Pennsylvania avenue southeast, Sunday.

Plans are being outlined for the renovation of the Wilson Memorial Church, Eleventh street near G street southeast, which would cost approximately $5,000. According to arrangements a new pipe organ will be installed, the church will be regilded, the Sunday school room will be enlarged and numerous other improvements made.

The quarterly meeting of the church conference to be held Monday night, the plans will be acted upon. The pastor, Rev. Thomas S. Long, will be in charge of the meeting. Providing the plans are adopted the money will be raised through subscriptions.

Eight - Room Structure to Be Started Soon—Will Relieve District Congestion.

Ground will be broken early next week for the construction of the new Takoma Park, Md., school. The structure will contain eight large class rooms and will have an auditorium with a seating capacity of nearly 600. The auditorium will also be used as a civic center.

Construction of the new school was made possible by the issuance of $20,000 in bonds by the town council and the building will alleviate crowded conditions at the old Takoma Park School. Numerous complaints have been made by the citizens of Takoma Park because of the conditions at the old school. They say that 50 per cent of the students at the District school are Maryland children.

With the completion of the new school, the conditions at the old school will be relieved, permitting children now forced to go to schools in other localities to be enrolled in their section.

Weddings

Hampson-Regan.
St. Joseph's Church, Second and C streets northeast, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Wednesday, October 4, when Agnes M. Regan, 917 B street northeast, was married to Robert F. Hampson, of Lexington, Ky., by Rev. P. J. O'Connell. The church was decorated with white chrysanthemums, autumn leaves and flowers. Miss Agnes Whelan rendered several solos.

Georgetown University law students, numbering nearly 1,200, must constitute the majority of the students to make the proposed $50,000 endowment fund for the university a reality. President John B. Creeden, S. J., urged at the formal opening of the school last night.

Co-operation on the part of the students rather than personal contribution, is what Georgetown seeks, President Creeden assured them.

Dean George E. Hamilton pointed out that the law school with the largest enrollment in the country, is looking forward to an unprecedented year. J. Spaulding Slattery, Washington attorney, addressed the student body.

SOUTHWEST OPENS
"CLEAN-UP" DRIVE
FOR SHRINE MEET

Individuals Start Campaign Without Awaiting Official Action.

Although the Shriner's convention will not be held until next June, the people of Southwest are preparing to start a "paint-up, clean-up" campaign. With the completion of the improvements now contemplated they will have something to show the Shriner's, P. A. Taita, a Seventh street business man, declared.

"With more than 200,000 Shriners to take care of, every section of the city will be crowded, and Southwest will have more than a press brick argument to show them," he continued.

"Although our section has not the large buildings of the Northwest, it certainly will have a home-like atmosphere," he said.

A new protest has been raised by the people of Southwest. Instead of "Taxation without representation," it is now "Taxation with improvements." George M. Yeaman, president of the Southwest Washington Citizens' Association, said.

"In 1920 there were few, if any, improvements made, and in 1921 the paving of Sixth street was probably the largest item of expenditure," he declared.

Really men in Southwest will voice their opinions on this neglect through that section's citizens' action, according to Yeaman.

Action against the one-man care now being operated on Eleventh street southwest, will be taken at the next meeting of the South Washington Citizens' Association, Yeaman announced.

"The one-man cars are dangerous and should be classed as a public nuisance," he asserted. "It is not possible for one man to efficiently and safely operate a street car and I should do it in my power to see that this section is rid of them."

The Young Women's Sodality of St. Dominic's Church, Sixth and E streets southwest, will give an entertainment in the rectory Tuesday night. Miss Mary Broderick, 470 F street southwest, is president.

James L. Balderson and Homer L. Johnson, 443 Seventh street southwest, will visit their home in Nomi, Va., within the next few days. The visit will be the first in twenty years.

Katherine and Joseph McCann will celebrate their sixteenth birthday next Wednesday. They are the son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. McCann, 841 E street southwest.

B. O'Donnell, 801 C street southwest, has been made assistant engineer of the steamer Majestic.

A new gasoline filling pump is being installed by the Akron Auto Supply Company, 522 Seventh street southwest.

Stephen Lout, an employe in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, has returned from New York, where he went to register for the fall elections.

Richard Harrison Yeaman, 426 Seventh street southwest, celebrated his sixth birthday anniversary last night. More than twenty children were present.

The Mothers' Club of the Jefferson-Anderson School, Sixth and Virginia avenue southwest, met yesterday afternoon at the Jefferson School and elected these officers for the coming year:

President, Mrs. Carolyn Freeman, 705 H street southwest; vice president, Mrs. F. A. Johansen, 207 Seventh street southwest; secretary, Mrs. C. A. Truworth, 608 B street southwest; and treasurer, Mrs. David C. Trott, 225 Eighth street southwest.
